Testimony of Alexis Remy, Revenue Manager Sofitel New York

"I joined the Sofitel Miami in 2005 as a Management trainee in Food and Beverage. This 18 months program allowed me to learn and grow within my department, but it also gave me an excellent understanding of the life of a hotel. Throughout my internship, I was given many responsibilities and was empowered to make my own decisions. The trust that I was shown allowed me to expand my skills and to find my own area of interest. After few months, I was offered a work permit and a position as an Assistant Restaurant manager. The 'open door policy' of this company gave me the opportunity to talk on a daily basis with our General Manager and department heads, which helped me showcase my strengths and talents. By doing so, I was able to transfer to Revenue Management as an Assistant Revenue Manager in 2007, even though I had no knowledge in this field. My General Manager trusted my abilities and I was trained for 18 months. During that time, I was able to expand my knowledge and shadow professionals in this field. I was sent to Chicago and New York where I discovered the same values in each other hotels. I was transferred to Sofitel New York in 2008 as a Revenue Manager and was promoted to Director of Revenue Management in mid-2009. I strongly believe that the AccorHotels values are helping each of us achieve our goals. It is a pleasure to come to work in an environment where everybody is equal and where there are not barriers."
